

Searching the Campus Digital Archives

Like our University Archives and Special Collections, the Campus Digital Archives preserves the cultural and academic heritage of the University of Regina. The Digital Archives contains newsletters, research reports, presentations, and more. In addition, the Digital Archives site provides a gateway to OAlster, a union catalogue of digital resources from other Universities. Over 1000 libraries currently contribute digitized documents to OAlster. These documents include full-text theses and dissertations, interviews, newsletters, journal articles.

The documents contained in the Campus Digital Archives are accessible through any search engine such as Google or Yahoo as well as through the Archer Library Web site. This Guide is intended to introduce you to searching both the Campus Digital Archives and OAlster using our web site as the access point. We'll look at two approaches to searching the Campus Digital Archives and one example of searching OAlster. You may want to do each step in this pathfinder on a computer. You'll learn a lot more that way than you will by just reading it! We think you'll find it time well spent and we hope you'll visit the digital archives often since more documents are being added daily!

To begin, you need to access the Archive. Go to the Library Home page and click on the Campus Digital Archive link.

Use search options on the left hand side to search the University of Regina Campus Digital Archives. The Help button provides links to searching techniques.

Search option on the right hand side allows you to search the digital repositories of other academic libraries.

BROWSE: Browsing is a great way to get an idea of the strength and breadth of the Campus Digital Collection. Let's look at one of the Browse options. Click on Communities & Collections.

Note: You can Browse by Subjects. Be aware, however, that not all records in the Digital Archives have subject headings assigned to them. Therefore, if you use Browse by Subject, you may wish to use another search option in addition.

As you browse in Communities and Collections, you'll get an idea of which departments and faculties have documents posted in the Digital Archives. For our example, let's go down to the Department of Economics. Click on the Discussion Papers link under that department in order to see those documents.

SEARCH OAIster: Use the initial search box on the main page of the Campus Digital Archives for simple searches consisting of one or a couple of terms. To access a more advanced search template, click on the OAIster picture.

The screenshot shows the main page of the University of Regina Campus Digital Archive. On the left, there is a 'Search DSpace' section with a search box and a 'Go' button, and a 'Browse' section with links to 'Communities & Collections', 'Titles', 'Authors', 'Subjects', and 'By Date'. The main content area features a description of the archive and contact information for Carol Hixson. A red-bordered box highlights the OAIster search area, which includes the OAIster logo with the tagline 'find the pearls' and the text 'Repositories in other academic institutions'. Below this is a search box and a 'SEARCH' button. A yellow callout box with a green arrow points to the OAIster logo, containing the text 'Click here to access advanced search template.' Another yellow callout box with a green arrow points to the search box, containing the text 'Enter simple search terms here and click SEARCH.'

In the example below, we have accessed the advanced search template. We're looking for information on Aboriginal health in Canada. First, click on the Search function. Get more help with searching by checking the Help screen.

The screenshot shows the OAIster advanced search template. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for 'Home', 'Search', 'Help', 'About', and 'Using OAIster'. The 'Search' and 'Help' links are highlighted with a red box. Below the navigation bar, there are three main sections: 'About OAIster', 'Using OAIster', and 'News & Updates'. The 'About OAIster' section states that OAIster currently provides access to 20,310,591 records from 1096 contributors. The 'Using OAIster' section explains that OAIster can be searched by Title, Author/Creator, Subject, Language or Entire Record, and that searches can also be performed by date. The 'News & Updates' section shows the date '2009 JANUARY' and a partial headline 'OCLC and UM are collaborating...'. The OAIster logo is visible in the top left corner.

Enter search terms in text boxes and click Search.

Search our test portals -- DLE, MODS -- to use features we're researching.

word in a search box, the words will be treated as a phrase and searched together, e.g., entering fancy dress will find records that have the word fancy next to dress. No quotations are necessary.

Use an asterisk with a word stem to find variations on the word, e.g., searching for *civ will match civ, civil, civic, civilization, and civilian.

Authors may be in inverted order, e.g., if emily dickinson doesn't return results, try dickinson emily.
